

Potential Strategies for Professional Development at foundry10

- Partnering with schools to offer teacher training with our departments during their scheduled training sessions
- Creating in-house training sessions, workshops events, 3-day summer intensives that we host
- Leading workshops at a conference for teacher professional development

Workshops and Training

- Sharing ideas/strategies using media
- Teaching through online tutorials
- Creating podcasts, mints, videos of ways to incorporate the arts or technology in existing programs
- Publishing article using our findings
- We can cast a wide net to the internet pouplace or share specifically with certain teachers as a follow up to a program we ran.

Video/Aricles

- Several week in-school programming where the teaching artists work closely with the teacher to empower them to take over the arts-based/imaginative curriculum with the students.
- This could be a several week program where the teacher begins to take on more responsibility, eventually teaching the last class with our feedback

Scaffold Teaching

- Working alongside other organizations/companies/schools on the creation of a program.
- Developing curriculum for a teacher and assisting in the implementation.
- Use another program or school's resources to enhance our own programs.

Partnering

- Provide teachers with necessary resources to continue to expand their pre-existing program.
- Consultation with existing programs and connecting them with the resrouces they need to develope.
- This could be providing curriculum for another teacher, a mentor for a student, or a new sound system, etc.

Expert Resources

- Support opportunities for teachers to watch a class, performance, and have a guided post-discussion.
- Researching a pre-existing program with our interest in specific findings through their program.
- Give feedback on ways a program could expand.
